PROJECTS

Kimray, Inc Optimization – Field Study Project

Implemented strategic tool arrangement optimization initiatives within the manufacturing environment to enhance operational efficiency. Analyzed machining processes, prioritized tool placement based on frequency of use, and streamlined tool changes to significantly reduce downtime. The successful implementation resulted in notable time savings, improved machine utilization, and a more streamlined production workflow. Helped Kimray start a process that could lead to saving $100,000's of dollars a year with this systematic approach.
